LOS ANGELES 24, CALIFORNIA

August 17, 1960

The Most Reverend Alden J. Bell
Auxiliary Bishop of Los Angeles
1531 West Ninth Street
Los Angeles 15, California

Your Excellency:

I have received word from Father [REDACTED] regarding changes in our house for the coming year. In his letter of August 10th addressed to [REDACTED], [REDACTED] informed the Cardinal that Father [REDACTED] who has been assigned on Missions here, will be replaced by Father [REDACTED]. Father [REDACTED] present work will be the convert and television program in the Los Angeles area. His place on the parish staff at Westwood will be taken by Father Thomas Marshall who has already arrived in Los Angeles.

May I request the faculties of the diocese for Father Marshall as assistant in the parish of St. Paul the Apostle.

Respectfully yours in Christ,

[REDACTED]

PREFACE

We spent two years collecting, sifting, and organizing data in order to publish the proof edition of Paulist Chronicles in 1988. Conscious that there would be mistakes and omissions, we encouraged feedback from the community. We gratefully acknowledge and thank all those who sent corrections, additions, and pictures.

We then spent another two years re-checking sources, trying to resolve conflicting dates, and collecting additional pictures. We discovered several new sources of data: diocesan archives, articles and books by or about Paulists who left, and old newspaper clippings.

This edition of Paulist Chronicles has the most complete set of Paulist pictures ever assembled. We're only missing 15 of the 605 men who took final promises as a Paulist. This has been a labor of love - we appreciate those who have contributed information, pictures, money, and time to this project, especially Paulist archivist REDACTED REDACTED and REDACTED without whose help this volume would not be possible. We'd also like to thank the many Paulists and former Paulists for your encouragement and support.

Paulist 2nd Chronicles

First Edition

The historical record of a religious community is created by the day to day work of its members. The official assignments of the community provide valuable information about the context in which individual Paulists are doing this work. For the past two years we have undertaken the task of creating a list of Paulist assignments. Compiling the information turned out to be a monumental task. This book is a first attempt.

We have striven for accuracy and would like your feedback on any errors you find. The record is fairly complete from 1960 to the present. Before 1960 we made no attempt at completeness. In the future some other Paulists might look up the information in various community files and in The Paulists, 1958-1970 by REDACTED and come up with a second edition of 2nd Chronicles.

We would like to thank all Paulists who have contributed their recollections and written records to this work, especially REDACTED and REDACTED.

The first section, Paulist Assignments, is an alphabetic list of all ordained Paulists and their assignments as we know them. The number following their name is their seniority number. Each line of assignment information includes beginning and ending date, city, name of the foundation, and their position.

The second section, Paulist Foundations, presents the same information as the first section, cross-referenced by foundation. Paulist foundations are listed alphabetically. The beginning year is given for each foundation and, where appropriate, the ending year is given. Each line of information includes beginning and ending dates, the name of the individual Paulist, and his position.

could foul the waters of Southern California's last pristine river, supervisors directed their planning staff to draw up final environmental documents that they could formally approve in May.

It is the second time Los Angeles supervisors have backed the Newhall project, consisting of 21,600 homes on 12,000 acres straddling the Santa Clara River in the northwest corner of the county.

After the initial approval in 1999, Ventura County and environmental groups sued to block the development. A Kern County judge ruled that the environmental documents needed to be rewritten to address whether there is enough water available, among other matters.

The rewritten documents were on the table Tuesday, with Newhall contending it had found additional water supplies for the 70,000 people expected to live in the development.

Despite giving initial approval to the project, supervisors registered concern about Newhall's alleged failure to disclose the full number of San Fernando Valley spinyflower on its land. The district attorney's office recently settled a probe into the matter by requiring Newhall to set aside a 64-acre spinyflower preserve.

Supervisor Zov Yaroslavsky said the incident has made him reconsider his initial support for Newhall. "I'm always troubled when a developer doesn't level with us," said Yaroslavsky, adding that he was reconsidering a previous vote in support of Newhall.

Yaroslavsky asked that Newhall allow supervisors and county staff to inspect all of the documents prepared by its consultants, who had searched the site for endangered species. The developer, who contends it has been forthcoming about the spinyflower, quickly agreed.

Then Yaroslavsky, who had already proposed that 1,100 new acres of Newhall land in Ventura County be preserved as part of the deal, abstained from the 4-0 vote that directed county staff to prepare the project's approval.

Supervisor Mike Antonovich, in whose district the Newhall project is located, had already formally scaled back the project by 730 homes to make room for the initial 64-acre spinyflower preserve.

In hours of testimony, supporters of the project argued it would create critically needed housing and jobs while opponents labeled it poorly planned sprawl that would sap water supplies.

called the office in reference to the article in the Los Angeles Times regarding the three accused of molesting altar boys, among them Father Thomas Marshall, C.S.P, a member of his Community.

He told me someone from the Archdiocese should have warned him about this. He knew that there had been a discussion about Father Marshall among the members of his Community. However, when he called the Provincial’s Office in New York this morning, they were unaware about the current situation. The incidents occurred in 1962.

He is concerned because Father is now retired and wonders if he is going to be extradited to the United States since according to the paper there is a warrant for his arrest. Father Marshall left the Archdiocese in 1963.

He would appreciate talking to you about this so that he can give some more information to his superiors in New York. He is also concerned about the parish school since most likely parents will be reading the newspaper and will be asking him questions.

He was calling from Santa Barbara, but he should be back at St. Paul the Apostle by 1:00 PM. He can be reached at

Thank you.

3 Accused of Molesting Altar Boys

By ERIC MALIN
Times Staff Writer

Child molestation charges were filed Tuesday against two former priests and a seminarian, and arrest warrants were issued for all three, the Los Angeles County district attorney's office said.

The charges against Lawrence Joseph Lovell, 55, and Thomas Marshall, 74, raise to eight the number of former priests charged in molestation cases by the district attorney's office.

Lovell, a former youth pastor in charge of altar boys at St. Gabriel Mission, is accused of lewd acts involving four boys under the age of 14 between 1980 and 1984. Removed from the ministry in 1986 after his conviction that year in another child molestation case, he has been working at a mental health center in New Mexico.

Marshall is charged with lewd acts involving two altar boys, 11 and 13, at St. Paul the Apostle Church in West Los Angeles. Prosecutors said the incidents occurred between 1965 and 1965, while Marshall was a priest at the church.

Marshall is retired and living in Toronto.

The former seminarian, Amado Pena, is accused of molesting two 14-year-old altar boys between 1980 and 1982 at Santa Teresa Church in Boyle Heights.

Pena, 51, was a seminary student at the church when the incidents allegedly occurred but left before becoming a priest, prosecutors said.

He is believed to be living in New Jersey, the district attorney's office said.

Prosecutors said that, if convicted, Lovell faces up to 15 years in state prison, Marshall up to life imprisonment and Pena up to eight years.

In July 2005, received a complaint from an adult male who alleges that when he was 14 years old, for a period of about six months, he would go places with Fr X. The outings involved discussions about sex. The behavior included the priest frequently touching the complainant's private parts; showing him how to put a condom on; and final act of oral sex, at which point complainant realized that this was not normal and never went with him again. Fr X is a religious order priest who served in the diocese from 1960-1962. He is 80 years old and there are no prior allegations in ADLA records.
